

We believe that this continent has in its belly a creature called revolution that is coming and inexorably, by biological law, by social law, by the law of history, must be born.